Convicted of Murder
GREENSBORO. Ala., Dec. 13..
Less than four weeks after his father-in-law was shot to death from ambush, John George, 91-year-old Confederate veteran, today was sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary for the crime.

George, formerly a well-to-do Hale county planter, was convicted of second-degree murder by a jury in circuit court late today and sentence was pronounced immediately.

Walter Mitchell, 50, Mrs. George's father, was killed November 21. The state contended George shot him as he walked along a road leading to his home in Pleasant Valley.

But what many people fail to realize is that valuable as outward precautions are, another safeguard is also necessary. They must build up their resistance as well!

The old idea used to be to wait until people took sick to do something about their physical condition. It has given way to the newer view that resistance should be built in advance. There should be a reserve to carry people through the times of year that tax their vitality.

Two resistance-building factors have been found specially helpful-Vitamins A and D. These are the factors which give health-protecting value to halibut and cod-liver oils with Viosterol. And there's a way to

"Hello, Everybody—Hello, Kiddies!

The great day is at hand! Santa Claus and his merry company of funmakers and dispensers of joy are to parade in Atlanta. We can go forth to welcome old St. Nicholas in person as he passes before our very eyes with his living reindeer and his wonderful array of beauty from many lands.

Bands will be playing, children's eyes will fill with tears of joy and grownups will experience a never-to-be-forgotten thrill as the spirit of Peace on Earth grips the hearts of everyone.

The Patron Saint of children and his merry contingent arrive Friday. Everything is all set, final arrangements have been made and the streets and sidewalks are in readiness for the happy throngs which will crowd them.

Santa Claus has sent through The Atlanta Constitution a message which he wishes us to present to every person in this and neighboring communities. Here it is:

Some Letters.

Dear Santa Claus:
When mother read about the parade
to me I got so excited I just danced.
I would give anything to be with my Santa Claus in the parade.
I am eight years old and in the third grade. I have known the Christmas story-since I was four years old. I am not asking for much this year; would like to have a doll in a trunk and what else you have for me. If I can't ride with you I'll try to come and watch the other children.

With love,

Dear Santa Claus:
We have a hospital at our house as daddy is sick, baby brother and I both had our ears punctured but mother has read The Constitution fo us every day telling us all about you so we are trying to hurry and get well so we can ride in the parade with you. I am six years old afid would like to have a little bicycle and brother wants a little wagon. Please don't forget the poor children. Lots of love to you and Mrs. Santa Claus.

It is actually surprising to see how quickly, pure, cooling, liquid, antiseptic D. D. D. Prescription relieves the itching tortures of eczema, scales, eruptions, rashes and other skin afflictions. Thirty years success recommends this remedy, originated by Dr. D. Dennis. Its gentle oils penetrate the skin, soothing and healing the inflamed tissues. No fuss—no muss. Clear, greaseless and stainless—dries up almost immediately. Try D. D. Prescription today. Stops the most intense tiching instantly. A 35c trial bottle, at any drug store, is guaranteed to prove it—or drug store, is guaranteed to prove it—or money back. D. D. Prescription is made by the owners of Italian Balm.

WHATEVER HAPPENS ... YOU'RE THERE WITH A CROSLEY Anderson-McGriff Hdw. Co.

An "American" MARCHES you'll be glad to meet!

LIRST, you're entitled to a bit of history. I You'll want to know something about the American Oil Company itself.

In our old *territory people know the American Oil Company and its products. They're glad we're in business there. We want you to be glad we're in business here.

The American Oil Company has become a great American institution in the old *territory it

Up to the time of our recent merger with Pan American, our operations extended in a big way through Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and North Carolina. You undoubtedly have friends in these states. Ask them about us.

To become the principal seller in many places-and in others, always among the first, the American Oil Company had to merit and hold the public's confidence. It has done so through products of unusual quality-real service-and sincere community interest.

The American Oil Company has always been a leader. It has originated and pioneered and developed. For example:

1. The American Oil Company-developed and marketed the first and original special motor fuel, AMOCO-GAS, which revolutionized both the gasoline and automobile industries, and made today's high compression motor possible.

2. It improved the quality of regular gasoline and was the first company to color regular gasoline to prevent substitution. Orange AMERICAN GAS is the original orange-colored regular gaso-

3. It introduced the first visible gasoline pump-the forerunner of the present meter pump-so motorists could see they were getting the quantity of gasoline for which they were paying.

4. It has many records to its credit, such as: The first non-stop passenger aeroplane flight across the Atlantic (Chamberlin)

The famous series of women's altitude and transcontinental aeroplane records (Ruth Nichols)

The great U. S. Army Pan American Flight-20,000 miles-through Central America, down the West Coast to Chile, across the Andes and up the East Coast of South America to Washington, D. C.

A host of automobile records by Pierce Arrow, Studebaker, Auburn, Ford, and others too numerous to mention here.

The American Oil Company's products are famous for their high quality. They are also distinctive, and represent the best "buys" in their respective price classes. You'll like these products.

You'll be glad to meet "American" and be glad "American" is here.

The next message in this series will tell about: THE "AMERICAN" PLAN. Watch for it!

BONE? WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 .- One thing congressmen are getting ready to beat their desks about is the NRA. Home-town businessmen and industrialists have been priming their senators and representatives with complaints. Legislation to revise the basic law will be offered and may pass. Any important changes will be vetoed by Mr. Roosevelt and cannot pass over a Nevertheless it appears that the president will have to toss a bone to the congressional growlers. It may be General Johnson.

There has been a renewal of inside talk lately about GUESSES getting some one of a judicial temperament in John-

Certain of the president's friends would like to see Johnson in charge of public works. His inspiration and promoting abilities are needed there. That change also would give Mr. Ickes a chance to be secretary of interior.

The best guess now is that the NRA will plug along on a middle-of-the-road policy for the present. The trend will be toward con-servatism, rather than more radical measures. The old idea of turning it into a scheme for socialization of industry cannot be put into effect until business goes bad. Business is refusing to get bad now.

HULL Those who are on top in the state department have heard there will be a mild and quiet reorganization there when State Secretary Hull returns. Hull is beginning to assert himself. He dropped a couple of the old clique boys out of the window before he left. More will go when he returns.

Likewise certain officials have been given to understand they must have more respect for the boss. Some are expected to get out before they are thrown. The department probably will never be put on a very good business basis. Salaries are so low that the Jobs are unattractive to men without private incomes sufficent to sustain them. Under this basic condition you can hardly get rid of the gay young society blades and the ex-men of Wall Street who come into the department to retire. Indeed, some in this class prove to be able public officials.

BITTERNESS The electric power industry has been moaning and groaning around the highest places here about what the government is doing to it.

The proposed code contains some provisions which are said to unnecessarily bitter. Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to have been induced to soften it somewhat before proclaiming it. More alarming to the power boys is the fact that the government proposes to lend money to a small Colorado municipality to buy existing equipment owned by a private power company. They it is illegal because no employment will be furnished. The worst of it is they cannot get any administration officials to shed a tear for their plight.

PEEK-TUGWELL Too much vinegar in the mayonnaise code problem was the immediate cause of the Peek-Tugwell hair-pulling contest.

That was the drop of gall which made their cups overflow. It seems that the salad dressing code actually became lost in the AAA. The mayonnaise people asked about it and Peek's crowd could not even find a copy in the files for days, although they were supposed to have been working on it for weeks. The complaints reached high quarters. It was unanimously decided that this incident, coupled with more important ones which had gone before, just about proved that the AAA was no place to RUSSIA The big Russia trade boom is turning out to be less simple than the ardent advocates of recognition contended.

International trade is built on the exchange of goods. We can sell Russia plenty but there is little we can buy from her. That leaves a serious problem of how she will pay us. The inner disposition is turning more and more against the idea of lending her any substantial amount of money for domestic purchases, except in cases where we want to get rid of surpluses. The truth is we have a surplus of nearly everything Russia can export-lumber, wheat, oil. About all there is left is caviar, vodka and manganese.

NOTES Administration ferrets are digging up data on a new klan-like outfit, supposed to be organizing pro-Hitler and anti-Jewish sentiment in certain localities. This new outfit works on a membership fee basis. Members wear shirts of a new color and organizers sell them the shirts. It sounds as if there ought to be a good profit in it.

The departure of Assistant Treasury Secretary Hewes is leaving some scars inside. Unlike Acheson, he has many powerful friends within the administration

You Eat the Fruit to Get Nourishment. Not to Make a Show of the Cores

By Robert Quillen — You have heard a great deal concerning the importance of reading

You have been scolded and ridiculed in the public prints because your knowledge of books is limited. You have been given to understand that a familiarity with sooks is essential to culture. And doubtless you have been led to believe that the best people, of the kind described in stories, have read all of the worth-while books If that is true, it is high time to examine the other side of the pic-

In the first place, no person living or dead has read all published books, or all modern books or all important books. If a youth of 20 years should enter one of the great national libraries today and hereafter should read from morning till night, every day in the year, until death claimed him at the age of four-score and ten, he would die with his task scarcely begun. In the second place, the books that should be read are comparatively

It is a waste of time to read books that add nothing to your present store of ideas and knowledge, books that are composed of false ideas, and books you will not remember.

To read books that repeat familiar truths is as stupid as it would be to search for something already found; to read books that are untrue is to give heed to a fool or a liar; to read books you won't remember is to throw away a few precious hours of your life.

Of course, you may read books for entertainment, without hope of learning anything, but such reading adds nothing to your culture. As an evidence or means of intellectual development, it is no more profitable than a game of bridge.

In the third place, a book worth reading at all is worth reading thoroughly, and you can't read such a book with justice to yourself and the author unless you know the exact meaning of every word in it. You can skim through a good book in a day, but that isn't reading it. You have skipped unfamiliar words; you have absorbed but a fraction of the author's meaning; and at the end of a year you will have forgotten the whole of it, including the title.

You need not envy the people who have "read everything." Most

"As a result of the added increase in price, the augmented income, and due to the fact the 1933 crop left to be harvested was one of the best in history in point of yield and cheapest in point of production," Cobb said, "business conditions throughout the cotton belt show radical improvement over what they have been at any time during recent years."

It was pointed out that the yield per acre of land left in cultivation, estimated by the crop reporting board at 209.4 pounds, was one of the high-est per-acre yields on record. Cobb said the plow-up program in the south not only was accepted enthusiastically by farmers but was faithfully carried out. The goal at the outset was to take not less than 10,000,000 acres or 3,000,000 bales from production. The amount of land acually plowed under was approximate y 10,400,000 acres. The baleage taken out was estimated at 4,400,000. Cobb now is working out plans for next year's reduction program. It is the goal of the farm administration to hold the cotton cultivation to 25,

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

The yacht Wings, captained by a girl, carries Vernon Mabee, wealthy young New Yorker, to stirring adventure on a lonely island off the Carolina coast. Vern rescues the girl's father when he is beset after being thrown out of a gambling house. In answer to a missing persons broadcast, he brings the old man to the yacht, which is ready to sail from Yonkers. Her father has gambled away all their combined fortune, but the girl, Irens Ferguson, announces that she must sail at once on an important mission. Veen, whose identity is unknown to her, ships as "crew." Three old men, a banker, a judge and a minister, who have been brought in answer to the appeal, are brought along by mistake. They agree to proceed when Irene explains that she must rescue her little brother, who is held for ransom on an island, Little Cane Key. Arriving at the island, after a severe storm, Vern finds that Irone has gone sabore, leaving a note in which she explains that her money is gone, but she has an alternative. Her brother is being held by "Dummy" Squales and his pal, Pancake Pete. Squales sends an old negro for the minister. Vern dons the minister's clothes and goes ashore, where, in a lonely old-house, he finds Irene and her father. There is a tapping at the door. "Dummy" Squales, a mute, does the tapping in Morse code. He tells Vern, as the minister, to proceed with a marriage service for "Dummy" and Irene. Vern, desperate, says there must be witnesses. "Dummy" and Krebs depart to get the three old men from the boat. Vern finds that Pete is holding Drury on a platform in a large tree. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

Vern wondered where "Dummy" might be. That he was somewhere within earshot he was quite certain—probably where he could see them, too. It gave the expedition the uncanny thrill of exploring a haunted house.

The rooms were large enough, in all conscience, for an eavesdropper to be hidden anywhere. And they were cluttered with huge pieces of useless furntiure in a bad state of repair that seemed to be mourning hopelessly for the return of a by-gone day. One felt that there was never quite enough light anywhere by day or night. The trees were crowding too close to the house for the sun to do its full service during the day and the glass chandeliered oil-lamsp were certainly not adequate entirely to disput the release of these manusade cay.

the glass chandeliered oil-lamsp were certainly not adequate entirely to dispel the gloom of those man-made caverns by night.

The house was obviously intended for a large family, attended by a tremendous retinue of servants. Just two people in any one of the rooms seemed like a couple of marbles in the Coliseum. the Coliseum.

Their very footsteps roused a creaking echo and their merest whisper seemed to run around the dusty, high mouldings gathering force as it trav-eled and rushing outside like a fright-ened bat disturbed from its noon-day

Slumbers.

The dining room was perhaps the gloomiest of all the apartments on the main floor. Finished in black walnut which had grown dull from lack of care and designed to accommodate a three-generation family assembly it now had a foriorn air of discouraged grandeur. Probably it had been wonderful once when snown line and bright silver had relieved its polished dark surfaces, and with scores of candles and a wood blaze in the fire-place furnishing warm illumniation. But it certainly was not reheaful now with the dimly filtered light of day disclosing its racks of empty chairs and only the ghosts of an ancient fire betraying itself by a faint odor of musty wood-smoke.

The kitchen was a little better, because there was a fire smouldering in the tremendous cookstove, but it, too, was lonesome for the brustling crew which had formerly filled it with cheerful confusion.

The kitchen conveniences, if they could be called such, were mostly of a by-gone pattern. Apparently there was, or had been, a storage tank for water somewhere because there were huge, complicated faucets over a greatiron sink flanked by pale, scoured down drain boards. At one end of the sink was a cistern pump evidently supplying soft water direct.

Back from the kitchen were the quarters for the help, nunaerous little cabins now almost entirely strangled by the second-growth forest.

At one side was a dog kennel which looked more as if it had been used lately. But there was no dog in evidence.

"What kind of a dog have you?"
Vern asked idly. One does ask that question.

"Sandy was an airedale but he died last week." Her voice was sindied last week." Her voi

What kind of a dog have you?"
Vern asked idly. One does ask that question.

"Sandy was an airedale but he died last week." Her voice was singularly colorless. From that Vern gathered that she was moved by considerable emotion and that Sandy in his lifetime had been well beloved.

"Died while you were away?"
"Yes."

Vern forbore any further question. He knew without having the picture painted for him that Sandy had not cared much for "Dummy" or Pete and that they had killed him while his mistress was not there to protect him.

A dog was something the landscape needed. Now that his attention was called to it by the empty kennel Vern realized that there was no live stock of any sort around the place. Usually an isolated dwelling like that has a hum of its own, the contented muttering of fowl, pigs discussing the menu, pups and kittens playing ferocious juugle games underfoot and bees supplying a diapason accompaniment to the entire symphony.

But something had laid a finger of silence on Cane Key. It did not stir.

a hum of its own, the contented muttering of fowl, pigs discussing the menu, pups and kittens playing ferocious jungle games underfoot and bees supplying a diapason accompaniment to the entire symphony.

But something had laid a finger of silence on Cane Key. It did not stir. Even the wind of the storm passing overhead did not disturb the fearful tranquility which prevailed below.

The gaety of the occasion, if there had ever been afty, was completely dampened by the reference to the death of the airedale and Vern and the mistress of Cane Key ascended to the second floor in a depressed silence At last even the pretense of small talk had deserted them.

On the stairway she put her hand on his arm. "Never mind. I'd really rather he were dead than to leave him to an uncertain existence. If I could be sure that he did not suffer much..."

She did not finish the trailing sentence but Vern completed the idea for himself. She was quite sure that Sandy had suffered and suffered much for his devotion to the family, sure that he had died lingeringly in defense of rights which had been crudely violated.

The front part of the second floor was a spacious library. Someone with a rebellious spirit had anciently bound many of the books in red leather and the flash of color still leavened the sombre calf brown which was the conventional shade for all libraries 50 years ago. There were no new books, The windows gaze one a pleasant vista of foliage.

In general the second floor was brighter, more cheerful. The light up there was better. FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 13.—

(P)—Judge William H. Atwell, of Dallas, has ruled in federal court here national prohibition cases now on federal court dockets may be prosecuted legally, despite repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The ruling was made on Roland O. Hobbs' motion, contending a charge against him under the Volstead act could not be legally prosecuted. The motion was overruled.

motion was overruled.

"I appreciate the fact that the Volstead act probably will not stand without the eighteenth amendment. Nevertheless, it hurts our sense of propriety to permit defendants to escape by an abrogation of the law," Judge Atwell said.

"I think the people had that in mind. The Volstead act is still on the statute books and will remain there until such time, if and when, it is repealed by congress.

"It is close question, I realize that, but I think the courts are going far enough in allowing no further prosecution under the Volstead act."

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Coughs

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested approved and most enthusianstically endorsed, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey rock and rye.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderfr' elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, ask for a bottle of Aspironal and tell the clerk to serve you two tenspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back ir two minutes if you cament feel the distressing symptoms of your cold or cough fading away within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you to try it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and choking up with phelgm at night.—(adv.)

It Seems Only Yesterday That Luke Was Signing Up as Cracker

And so the Yankees are trying to purchase Luke Appling, the Oglethorpe boy who leaped from the confines of Ponce de Leon park to the major circuits and stayed there!

The years must be getting along. It seems only last summer that Luke Appling drove up to the baseball office with Tubby Walton, the local funny man, and went in to sign a Tubby Walton owned a part of him by right of discovery, or something like that. At any rate, he had some sort of prior lien on the boy.

I recall also that he was signed with the agreement that he was to get 25 per cent of his sale price in the event he was sold to the major leagues. There were some quiet smiles at that among the baseball reporters present. That is an old gag with the owners. They offer a kid so much to sign and dangle that bait before him.

It's all right. It's up to the kid. If he does go well he will get real money. But all of us saw several long years of minor league play before Luke Appling at that

I recall the first afternoon he stepped into the lineup. He got a base hit that day. From then on he was barely in there, just hanging on. Johnny Dobbs often debated the problem. The boy was doubtful. Dobbs was trying to finish in the first division. Applying stayed.

He was always a question mark. Even when the relatively surprising news came that he had been sold to the White Sox for $20,000 cash and a ball player valued at $5,000 there was some doubt locally about his ability to stick up there.

He had one year on the bench and off it, about half and

And then he found himself. Last year he was the best young shortstop in the major leagues. He piled up a great average in all departments of play.

No saga of baseball is more inspiring than this one of the Atlanta boy who had but one season in the minors, going from college ball to the majors in one brief hurdle.

It seems but yesterday that he followed the waddling Walton into the park, a gawky, timid kid with big hands that he couldn't find a place for until he reached for that pen to sign on the dotted line.

THE BASEBALL TRADE WINDS.

It seems that the banks are about to take over the ball clubs. This would seem, to some harsh critics who do not love our bankers, to be a case of simple justice. The bankers do not know what grief is until they try running a ball club.

our bankers, to be a case of the Athletics, reputedly one of the richest baseball prizes, is an indication of what is happening in baseball. Despite recent pennants and world's championships, the Philadelphia Athletics are so badly off financially that they were forced to sell their most valuable chattels.

If this is true of the Athletics it is even more indicative filt in the stream of the athletics it is even more indicative filt in the stream of the athletics are so hadly off financially that they were forced to sell their most of the smaller major leagues clubs must be trying to muddle through.

And when one reflects on the case of the minor leagues the situation is really alarming.

Only at the Boston Red Sox office, where Tom Yawkey agamble, and at New York, where Colonel Jake Ruppert's brewser yand bull club are both making money, is there any use of black ink.

Time was when the Brooklyn club was rich in financial resources. But that was before they got smart and fired Your Unclee Wilbert and they sold Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman. And the club did no better and the fans stayed away very enthusiastically sindeed.

The real is that baseball is in a bad way. The owners have with bargain double-headers and other schedule subterfuges.

A FEW RECOMMENDATIONS.

Baseball has always pointed with pride to the fact that the es haven't changed radically since the batter had the right choose which ball he would hit.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(49)—Irvine Warburton, All-American quarterback of the University of Southern California and leading scorer of the Pacific Coast conference season just closed, gained about a half mile against Troy's eleven opposents this rules haven't changed radically since the batter had the right to choose which ball he would hit.

And they pointed with scorn to the football rules which were changed so frequently that the ink was hardly dry on the rule books before new ones were

But football played to a 40 per cent increase in attendance last season. And baseball played to empty benches and rusty Unless the 1934 summer produces more baseball interest, the game will really be in jeopardy.

The ball players are largely to blame, having become accustomed to doing simply a job of work in which there were few elements of more than mechanical competitive interest.

A number of changes have been recommended. One is a uniform baseball. This should be adopted by all baseball leagues, majors and minors.

The fans know that most hitting records are phoney. The lively ball is used in one league and a dead one in another. Still other leagues have a super-lively ball.

The hitting records have come to mean but little. A .300 average used to be a badge of honor. Now it is just another set of figures.

Along with the standard ball should be a standard home run distance. A home run may be 125 feet in one park and Harry Mehre, head coach of the successful Georgia team of the past fall, got a laugh yesterday at the annual Rotary banquet for the football team at Athens.

"After reading the papers every morning for the past month and seeing the daily list of ousted coaches," said Mehre, "the problem seems to have reached Mrs. Mehre.

"She was bargaining for some shrubs for the house yesterday," said Mehre, "and I heard her ask the man when they would flower. He said within two years, and she said they were no good as her husband was a coach and might not be there to see them bloom two years from now. What she wanted was something that would bloom before January 1."

Mehre and his entire staff will, of course, be back at Athens.

Nolen Richardson, Who Faced 'Lefty' Often,

One of them is a young Atlanta man who knew Mr. Mack and played against all the players mentioned.

Nolen Richardson, who was with the Detroit club three years while the latest of Mack's machines was in its heyday, was not surprised. Nolen was queried on his opinion of the matter yesterday.

"Mack must have needed money to part with Grove and Cochrane, for he was crazy about that battery," Richardson stated. "It must have been an effort for him to part with those two.

"That Grove was the greatest I ever saw—against the right and the left-handed hitters; he has a rubber arm and should be good a long time yet. But as for the others, I think the same in arm and should be good a long time yet. But as for the others, I think Mack drove a pretty smart bargain."

Mack has always had to cut the corners at Philadelphia, especially since he had to compete with the bugaboo of attendance, the Pennsylvania blue law. Now that has been lifted, Mack will draw better, if the old master should have the output of one more good team left in his system. (He is 71 years old now.) He paid a lot of money to the late Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, for Grove, Earnshaw, Boley and Bishop.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(P)—Figuring their championship chances increased through the break up of the Philadelphia Athletics, the New York Yankees today hustled around with renewed activity at the major league meeting and player mart.

Colonel Jake Ruppert and Manager Joe McCarthy held a conference with the White Sox and while nothing was announced officially, it was learned they were attempting to make a deal by which Luke Appling, star young White Sox shortstop, would go to New York. Vice President Harry Grabiner admitted that his club might part with Appling but denied the White Sox would get Infielder Lynn Lary, Outfielder Sammy Byrd and Pitcher Charlie Ruffing in return.

A GREAT STAR. A GREAT STAR.

"Appling's a great star," said Grabiner, "and we would have to get more than that for him."

Rogers Hornsby, pilot of the St. Louis Browns, offered Oscar Melillo for Appling, but Grabiner wouldn't listen. The Rajah has been trying to swing a deal with Melillo as bait but has not been successful. Cleveland wants Oscar, but Hornsby wants Earl Averill in an even trade and it's no go.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(P)—Baseball's trade winds, unleashed yesterday with history making fury as Connie Mack broke up his once unbeatable Athletics combination, blew more noted stars helter skelter today.

Leon "Goose" Goslin, outfield star of the championship Washington Senators, was swapped outright for Jonathan Stone, rising outfielder of the Detroit Tigers.

Carl Reynolds, hard-hitting outfielder, was traded by the St. Louis Browns to the money-flushed and ambitious Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Ivy Andrews and Smead Jolley, another struggling outfielder.

As soon as Manager Rogers Hornsby, of the Browns, considered one of the keenest David Harums in baseball, completed the deal, he sent Jolley, Pitcher Wallace Hebert and Shortstop Jim Levey to Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast league, in a straight deal for Allen Strange, regarded as one of the prize shortstop prospects in the game.

MINUS SUPPORT

Athletic Supporters Reap Payoff; Philly Fans Are 'Sold Out.'

By Cy Peterman.

(Copyright, 1983, for the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—It is a crush-

CHICAGO. Dec. 13.—It is a crushing story, this scattering to the four winds of the once proud Athletics.
Yes, it is a wonderful deal. It's a $275,000 deal. A lot of money.
But a fat lot of good it'll do Connie Mack on his seventy-first birthday when this grimmest of all Christmas weeks rolls 'round. For of that vast sum he will be glad to salvage a measly $25,000—so say inexorable reports—a mere tithe to finance his training trip next spring.
That's all the good the money does to Mack. The remainder, that glittering quarter of a million which sets a new all-time high for player sales, goes to pay off. Never in the history of the game has one baseball owner disposed of such a group at such breath-taking figures—and come out of it with as little as does Connie.

NO WONDER.

NO WONDER.

No wonder the old man was white as paper ashes. No wonder his bony hand shook when he came out, a sheaf of papers clutched, to make a low-voiced, scarcely audible statement. Only the Philadelphia reporters Only the Philadelphia reporters heard that utterance. Connie would heard that utterance. Connie would allow no others near.

"We sold Grove and Walberg and Bishop to the Boston Red Sox, and they give us Kline and Warstler," he said. "We sold Cochrane to Detroit, and got Pasek in return. We sent Earnshaw to Chicago, with Pasek, and get Catcher Berry from them. That's all." said Connie Mack.

"But what about the cash?"

"But what about the cash?"
"That's all I have to say," he repeated. His face tightened. He looked away. The cash, which probably more than any other time in his lows on than any other time in his long and checkered career was utterly distaste-ful to Mack, he would not mention. But it wasn't necessary. Already the news of those staggering sums paid for Mack's stars was drifting through the Palmer House lobbies. THE STORY.

What is the story of this wreckage

what is the story of this wreckage of the Athletics?

It is the story of that proposition we in America are pleased to call "business." You've heard the expression often, in excuse of some culpable deel: "Well, that's business."

So it is business to foreclose on old to connie. It is business to make him sell his stars, clean the shelves of experienced, pivotal men and throw his to deat plans into the discard just when Sunday baseball in Philadelphia for the first time in his career becknoned a rosy future. It is business not to give him that added time to pay up for past indebtedness before he can cash in on investment. of the Athletics?

Connie Mack Builds Anew. AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 13 .- Starting past seventy to rebuild any part of life can hardly be classed as one of the easy tasks.

I still recall Connie Mack's starting out to rebuild a shattered championship machine back in 1906, Just after the Giants had beaten his. Athletics in four out of five starts. He retained Bender, Plank and a few others-and by 1910 had McGinnis, Collins, Barry and Baker all set for another clean-up.

When this team was finally dismantled, Connie settled down to life in the cellar for six or seven years. He picked up more than five hundred ball players in this time, without being able to make any headway. Then the tide finally swung his way once more with Grove and Cochrane, Foxx, Earnshaw, Dykes, Bishop and others for a three-year run.

Now, through financial stringencies, the tall, lean, gray-haired veteran scatters another set of stars to various battlefields, facing another job of robuilding

It is doubtful that Mack would have sold his talent if he had known at the time that Philadelphia was to have Sunday baseball. The story is that he had to have more than $200,000, that the demand for this amount was insistent, and that at the time he could see no other way. In any event, it was a tough spot or wrecking a good ball club, but in the topsy-turvy financial world of 1933 many bizarre episodes have taken place.

There are times when it is difficult to find a substitute for money—whether deflated or inflated.

All Over Again.

Even in building up another cham-pionship ball club, Connie was never able to replace Collins, Baker and Barry. You don't stumble over this type every other week.

In place of Bender and Plank he brought Grove and Earnshaw to the rifle pit. Replacing Grove and Coch-rane will be another near-impossibil-ity. At its peak, this was probably the greatest battery in baseball his-

And the only answer the faway. And the only answer the finatic asks is a winner.

Just how long it will take Connie Mack to get another winning combination started is anybody's guess. But it will hardly take place in a hurry. The main shock will hit Philadelphia with Grove, Cochrane and Klein absent when the next show starts.

There is a touch of irony in the situation, since next year for the first time Sunday baseball will be legal in the Quaker City, meaning many more customers at the turnstiles, under rmal circumstances.

Mack, facing a tough financial situation, which had developed before the election legalizing Sunday play, is reported to have com-mitted himself on the deals just announced before he knew for certain that Sunday play would be allowed.

With Foxx, of the old guard left, he has added in the last two years several promising young players in Coleman, Higgins, Johnson and others. Amid the clink of glasses they wished Collins and Bucky Harris good luck. But somehow, it didn't seem right—on the other side of the wall.

A door creaked open softly, somebody stepped out. Footsteps receded down the hall. He hid away, did Connie. No sign of the tall tactician.

We didn't try to find him. You don't prod a man who is down.

Smith Case Details Delayed.

McRae, on the stand Tuesday aft-McRae, on the stand Tuesday aftenoon and all day Wednesday, was about to go into the details of the return of Clyde Smith, when court adjourned. George Finch, attorney for McRae, stated that testimony in this case will deal with "another case of bribery and extortion."

McRae's testimony Wednesday was devoted to various matters, knowledge of which he contends justified him in making statements during his campaign charging Boykin with extortion of $450 from Art Young after his return to Fulton county from Utah, with the "framing" of Jack Lance for the murder of Bert Donaldson, Boykin assistant, and lobbying.

Much interest was aroused when a letter which McRae contends was mailed to him by a Fulton county judge and which purports to have been written by Roykin asking for the more param.

TWO CUBANS HELD, SMUGGLING OF GIRL INTO U.S. CHARGED

The pathetic case of a comely young Lithuanian woman, partly crippled by infantile paralysis, who tried to get by immigration authorities in Florida and make her way to her mother's home in New York, was brought out before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Wednesday. Toby Lena Rosenberg, the girl, said

Toby Lena Rosenberg, the girl, said she had got as far as Cuba on her way to New York when her progress was blocked by the United States immigration laws which bar crippled aliens. She said that two Cubans, Florencio Echegaray and his wife, offered for $300 to smuggle her into this country. She added that she paid them $100 on account, and the three started for Miami, She posed as the Cuban's wife—Cubans are allowed entry—and the real wife as her sister, she told Commissioner Griffith.

A man in Miami agreed to take them to New York in his car for $50, $10 of which was paid, but immigration authorities got wind of the scheme and had the trio arrested on their arrival in Atlanta.

scheme and had the trio arrested on their arrival in Atlanta.

The Cubans said they had been paid nothing for their trouble, but were simply trying to befriend the girl. They were held in lieu of $1,000 bond pending disposition of the case by Jacksonville immigration authorities. Commissioner Griffith, feeling sorry for the Luthuanian girl, allowed her to make a personal bond. She is staying with Lithuanian friends here.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves Big Dollars! No Cooking!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as readymade medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste. Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MOSCOW, Dec. 13.—(P)—Sweeping measures to strengthen the population of workers, peasants and soldiers located in the Far East—whose diers located in the Far East—whose frontiers the soviet government has considered a danger spot for attack from without ever since the Japanese occupation of Manchuria—were contained in a decree issued Tuesday. The order becomes effective January I. The decree, promulgated by Joseph Stalin, secretary of the communist party, and Vyacheslaff M. Molotoff, president of the Union Council of People's Commissars, orders radical concessions to Russian peasantry and general increases in all wages and large pay increases for the troops located in the Far Eastern territory.

"In view of the considerable flow of immigration to the Far Eastern region and the necessity to assist these people to establish households under difficult conditions," the decree ordered the following measures effective after the first of the year:

1. Complete exemption for 10 years for all collective farmers from the obligation to the grant and for all collective farmers from the obin the celebration there.

Governor Talmadge will turn back at Americus, returning to Atlanta to--those who have not yet joined the B years.

2. Exemption to the peasants in link in the highway, the 14-mile attetch between Thomaston and the Flint river.

An elaborate series of welcomes is planned for those making the motorcade. Stops are planned in every large city and a rally is scheduled for Albany tonight.

Once, deep in a northern forest, while watching for small birds in a tangle of tamaracks, I had the pleasure of watching a weasel at close range. Evidently the little meat-eater was looking for birds also, for he darted here and there along fallen trees, among the branches, flashing in and out of sight, until I squeaked as mousily as I might, and froze him into a statuesque pose in a picture of sheer beauty; a sable brown animal 21-year-old cotton picker and his girl friend, seized by a single captor after the killing of three persons in a county store holdup, were held secretly today.

"The boy admitted it," said Sheriff C. C. Jones upon his return here early today, some hours after the couple, Fred Overstreet and 18-year-old Cleo Owens, had been taken quietly from the jail by the sheriff and other officers.

"There is no mob trouble," he added. "We took them out and found the pistol."

Previous reports were to the effect that "strong talk" at Fay following the shooting there of Henry Weiser, 52-year-old storekeeper; his wife, 48, and Tom Turnise. 55, a pedestrian, had caused the officers to take their prisoners away. The threats did not materialize into a show of violence, however.

Mrs. Foster Moves.

Mrs. Annie Adair Foster has transferred her popular afternoon and evening tournaments from the Biltmore to the Terrace Club. This arrangement will be made as to the the tright of the declarer or by West at the left. If East holds the king, we can maneuver the leads in such a way as to lead from the dummy to our own hand, playing the queen in case East does not play the king. Thus the queen will have won a trick and the ace will capture another. If West holds the king, we have lost noting. A finesse, then, is a method of play that will gain a trick if the position of the missing honor or honors is favorable. With honors in sequence, such as king-queen-knaveten, it is a matter of complete indifference how we play it. We will the second of the missing honor of the missing honor of the missing honor of validation of the missing honor of validation of the missing honor of validation of the missing honor of the missing Billy Rains spent the week-end in Atlanta with his mother, Mrs. G. | Dost noting. A linesse, the method of play that will gain a trick if the position of the missing honor to qualify for the regional, the will represent the going hard. In point of class this tournament is probably the faftest Atlanta has ever seen. The winning team in the regional will represent this section in the naison and tournament of the United States Bridge Association held in January in New York. The winning team will go as the guest of the association with every expense paid. It is a prize

Here we have a major tenace sitting over a minor tenace. Thus in this example, if we can so maneuver for position as to lead the suit three times from the North hand to the South, we will capture every trick in the suit, disregarding the fact that our suit is full of holes.

The method by which this would be done would be to first maneuver to place the lead in the North hand and then to lead the 3, and when East plays the 9, to cover with the ten, when this card holds the trick, it then appears quite certain that our maneuver for position has been successful. At least one of the outstanding adversely held honors has been encircled and is subject to capture if we can so maneuver as to again place the lead in the North hand. We will assume for the purpose of this discussion that the North hand contains sufficient entries to permit us to complete the encircling movement. Again. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Edwards

The conductor of this column has already stressed in his wire story from the scene of battle the memorable showing Mrs. Humphrey Wagar and Fred Levy made in the final session of the mixed pair championship. A showing that gave them a 67 per cent game, distanced the field by 32 points and brought to them and Atlanta a national championship. Your life is not necessarily wrecked but the same rash and reck-less spirit that drove you into the arms of the selfish boy and the arms of the selfish boy and the catty mother-in-law, permeates your letter and unless you subdue it and adopt a more sane and serious attitude toward life it's merely a matter of time until you have another disastrous experience. Marriage entered into as a means of escape from a plaguing situation seldom provides the escape. Certainly when checkmating conditions, such as obtain in the lives of your two pursuers, are to be reckoned with there is scant chance of escape through marriage with either of them.

The monthly alimony bill takes precedence over every other. The wife of a rich man begrudges the payment of this obligation to a for-

If you couldn't put up with a catty mother-in-law, how could you put up with the rivals your woman-crazy husband would introduce into your life? You couldn't and you wouldn't. After having learned the ropes of divorce you would use them again shortly after marriage to either of these men. A second time you on them and although they give me clothes and spending money home has changed. There are two men pursuing me, each of them divorced, one is paying alimony for the support of two children, the other is woman crazy and has a terrible temper. If I can't get the funds to study music and radio it means that I must let one of them buy another marriage license. I can't impose on my parents indefinitely. Mother constantly tells me that my life is wrecked, but I can't believe that an 18-year-old girl has destroyed all chance of a happy life because she made one terrible mistake. It might be pleasant to study music and radio and, if talented, you might in time make the investment pay, but in the meantime there is other sort of work, less congenial, perhaps, but more lucrative, work that will pay you a living wage. Giet out, young lady, and find it. Settle down to it and learn that life is not a soft snap after all but a serious business that pays dividends only when they are earned. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am in love with a girl who goes out with me a lot. Every time she goes with me she has some critical remark to make about my clethes, what I say or how I behave. I get awfully tired of it. In fact I am fed up on her criticism. Tell me what to say to her, please.

ANSWER:
You have fastened your affection on a reformer. You will either have to break her neck or break the bonds that bind you to her. She will always jack you up when she disapproves your taste and call you to task when you say or do anything that displeases her. You might have a little fun by telling her that hereafter she may take you as you are or find anyother boyfriend. She will agree to take you as you are, but the criticisms will continue just the same.

NEW YORK. Dec. 13.—(P)—
Sluggishness accompanied another downward drift in several markets to-day. Wheat's weakness and an absence of speculative incentive gave stocks a moderate reaction, though turnover was reduced on the setback and losses were again largely fractional.

back and losses were again fractional.

The unchanged gold price and narrowness of dollar movements against foreign currencies have probably lessened the appeal which inflationary possibilities held out to speculators. On the other hand, improvement in United States obligations and the firm undertone of the whole investment market are manifestations of trend which have not escaped notice in conservative circles.

trend which have not escaped notice in conservative circles.

Exchange fluctuations favored American money, but the extreme changes were of little consequence.

Possibility of a communication company merger directed attention to shares directly interested in such an eventuality, and the immediate response was an advance by Western Union and Postal Telegraph preferred, the latter closing a point higher. American Telephone sagged, then virtually recovered. Radio was active but narrow, while International Telephone improved fractionally. Utilities as a group had a period of firmness. But operations on the long side had little vigor and the market lapsed during much of the afternoon.

Net losses for United States Steel.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(A)—Atternal of the process of stocks and grains. March contracts rallied from 10.07 to 10.17, and closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net gains of 3 to 8 points.

While the market was steady early While the market was steady early

While the market was steady early in the day, selling up to net gains of about 2 to 4 points, December was relatively easy under liquidation influenced by issuance of notices representing about 1,000 bales.

Reactions in other markets brought out a little selling and there was also some pressure from January liquidation prior to first notice day next week. Prices moved nervously over a narrow range in response to moderate orders either way and at one time sagged to net losses of 2 to 5 points. Rallies of about 9 to 11 points from this level followed the appearance of spot house buying of January in the late trading and the market closed at or within a point of the best.

Exports today 15, 789, making 3,743,601 so far this season. Port recipts, 18,558. United States port stocks, 4,112,475. Reactions in other markets brought

Aside from a little hedging early in the day, offerings from the south were limited and southern advices indicated quiet conditions in the spot market with the basis holding firm. Spot houses were on both sides of the market but were believed to be buyers on balance.

balance.

Part of the selling was credited to brokers with Japanese connections while the continent was a buyer. Liverpool cables reported a good trade demand in that market as well as scattered Bombay buying and local support, with the advance attracting small profit taking. Manchester reported a fair demand for cloths but offerings were described as "impracticable."

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(P)—Renewed strength of United States government securities and sharp declines in the foreign list were the features of today's rather spotty bond market. The trading volume was a little better than that of yesterday, but the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was again unchanged at 74.3.

The rally of the federals was attributed partly to some buying for treasury accounts, but institutional purchases were also reported. All government listed issues closed with advances ranging from 2.32nds to 22.32nds of a point.

German bonds were the worst sufferers in the foreign division, their losses running from 1 to 5 or more points. The weakness of the reich list followed reports that the government was tightening exchange restrictions to prevent the flow of capital out of the country.

Other foreign obligations were said to have been affected by the continued decline of exchanges in terms of the dollar.

By JOHN P. BCUGHAN.
CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(4?)—Overcome by pressure of liqudating sales in a market bare of buyers, wheat tumbled today to a maximum of 41-4 cents under Monday's top level.
Wheat closed nervous, 11-4 to 21-2 cents lower than yesterday's finish, corn 11-8 to 13-8 down, oats 11-8 to 13-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 27 cents.
Corn and oats sagged with wheat and as a result of reports that the government's corn loan plan was not finding as universal acceptance as at first indicated. Primary receipts of corn were much larger than either last week or a year ago.

Provisions were dominated by downturns of cereals notwithstanding an upward trend in the hog market.

ALIBI FOR CRAWFORD

LEESBURG. Va., Dec. 13 .- (AP)-

MOSCOW. Dec. 13.—(P)—Sixteen years of official isolation from each other between the United States and soviet Russia were broken today when William C. Bullitt presented his ambassadorial credentals to Mikhail Kalinin.

The ceremony was accompanied by more than an ordinary cordial exchange with president to the general with president to the establishment of normal relations ore than an ordinary cordial exchange etween the president of the general executive committee and the American envoy, and was marked by the emphasis of both men on the fact that while the United States and the Soviet Union represent two widely divergent political and social systems, this in pected to remain here only long enough tself presents no bar to their sucessful co-operation.

Both pledged their respective governments to forward "not merely nor mal but genuinely friendly relations between the two countries.

Smoking During Court Sanctioned by Judge SAVANNAH. Ga., Dec. 13.— Judge D. M. Dickerson, of the Waycross eircuit of the superior court, permits smoking during the sitting of the court. Judge Dickerson has been here holding court because of the illness and death of Judge Peter W. Meldrim, of Chatham county court. Yesterday he made himself comfortable on the bench and gave the city-bred attorneys a shock by taking a cigar from his shock by taking a cigar from his pocket and lighting it.

It was not long before the attorneys in the courtroom followed his example. A bailiff found a lawyer smoking before he discovered the judge was doing the same thing. The bailiff hastened to the lawyer and told him to put his cigar out. The lawyer pointed to the judge. Then all objection to smoking was removed.

TIFFTON, Ga., Dec. 13.—(P)—
One of 11 defendants charged with selling beer was found guilty in Tift superior court in the first beer-selling case to be tried here.
Counsel for the defendant, a cafe proprietor, called several witnesses to the stand to testify the beer was nonintoxicating. The state presented the testimony of J. T. Adair, of Atlanta, assistant state chemist, who gave the alcoholic content of the beverage subassistant state chemist, who gave the alcoholic content of the beverage submitted to him for examination.

Sentencing of the cafe proprietor was deferred until disposal of the remaining 10 cases, which is expected the latter part of this week.

DEATH THREAT BARED

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., Dec. 13.

(P)—A 12-year-old red-headed mountain boy, produced as a surprise witness, brought the state's case against three mountaineers charged with the murder of Thomas Price to a dramatic close today.

The state of Virginia began today to piece together the bits of evidence by which its attorneys will endeavor to convict George Crawford, negro, of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, of Middleburg, Va.

Testimony was presented by witnesses ranging from prominent sportsnesses ranging from prominent sportsnesses ranging from prominent sports-the murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, of Middleburg, Va.

Testimony was presented by witnesses ranging from prominent sportsmen to a negro woman friend of the defendant.

Seeking to block an anticipated move of the defense to establish an alibi for Crawford, state counsel put Berda De Neal, negro woman, on the witness stand to tell about a note she received from Crawford at her home in Middleburg the day before Mrs.
Ilsley was slain early in the morning of January 13, 1932. The note was delivered by another negro, she said.

In addition, Commonwealth's Attorney John Galleher announced he had two letters addressed to the De Neal woman in Crawford's handwriting delivered on March 4, after the crime, telling her not to inform the authorities he was in Boston.

The negrees said they were delivered in a box along with a fur coat she received from Crawford.

PROSECUTION RESTS AT NEW MURDER TRIAL

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 13 .-(UP)-The state rested its case against Kenneth Neu, 26-year-old alleged double slayer, late today, after introducing a signed confession in which the former night club enter-tainer admitted that he clubbed Shef-field Clark, Nashville businessman, to death in a New Orleans hotel room. The defense objected to the confes-sion, claiming that it was not admissible because at the time it was signed, Neu had been adjudged a lunation ed, Neu had been adjudged a lunatic by a Georgia court.

Neu is charged with killing Clark to rob him, and of driving the dead man's automobile to Jersey City, where he was arrested. He admitted the killing and also confessed to killing Lawrence Snead, Paterson, N. J., theater manager, the week before.

Mrs. Eunice Hotte, New Orleans waitress, who accompanied Neu to New Jersey in Clark's automobile, was placed on the stand today. She testified that Neu appeared "perfectly normal" during the three days following Clark's slaying.
